I, _____ (the customer), understand that the warranty that was provided to me by Max Appliance Repair Vancouver (the company) is limited and applies only to the part/issue that was replaced or repaired.

- The warranty does not apply after it has expired.
- The warranty does not cover clogs of any kind.
- The warranty will not take effect in a case of wrong usage, and/or any damage that was caused directly or indirectly by the user.
- The warranty will not take effect if any foreign objects enter the pumps, motors, or any other mechanical parts in the appliance.
- The warranty will not apply if you encounter the same problem again for which a replacement part will need to be purchased.

When using the warranty service:

It is my understanding that a charge of $70+ HST will be applied if the original diagnostics do not match the initial problem. The service call fee will be waved in case I decide to repair the appliance again.
